Description

Mace Wood is a splendid mixed ancient woodland featuring a wide variety of tree species. Situated about 3 miles east of Orpington near Bromley in southeast London the wood offers unique and stunning views across to the City of London. It is easily accessed from a quiet country lane, through a locked metal gate and down a private stoned track leading to the wood itself.

Mace Wood is small enough to be easily managed but large enough to be able to completely immerse oneself in nature. This woodland has lots to offer a new owner. A rustic bench has been installed in a clearing, a place to sit and contemplate and listen to the sounds of the birds and insects. In spring Bluebells and Dog's Mercury can be found on the forest floor. Throughout the year ground ivy appears in places, and you will find the occasional patch of Butchers Broom. There is minimal bramble. The wood is surrounded by horse paddocks to the north allowing lots of light into the wood – and there are privately owned woodlands to the south and east. See 'Trees' section below for information about the trees found in this woodland.

The purchasers of the woodland will be asked to enter into a covenant to ensure the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of adjoining woodlands and meadows.

Trees

Tree species include beech, oak, ash, wild cherry, hazel, field maple, western red cedar, Norway spruce, yew, hawthorn and holly. There are many splendid mature trees to be found in Mace Wood including a veteran beech tree. A new owner may choose to 'halo thin' around other potential future veteran trees to enable them to thrive and reach their full potential.

Mace Wood has been designated as Ancient Replanted Woodland \(PAWS\) by Natural England. This is woodland that has been under constant tree cover since at least 1600AD. It is valued as a rich reserve of biodiversity. It is also a SMINC (Site of Metropolitan Importance for Nature Conservation), a local authority designation where the woodland is noted as 'An ancient wood where the greater butterfly-orchid grows, a flower which is found in very few places in London'.

There is an approved Management Plan and Felling Licence for Crown Wood (of which Mace Wood is a part) – details of this are available upon request. The Management Plan is not mandatory, but it is full of good advice, and a lot of background information which will certainly be interesting and useful. There is a Tree Preservation Order on Crown Wood (details of this TPO are available upon request), though this does not prevent normal forest management when covered by a Forestry Commission approved woodland management plan.

Wildlife

It is noted in the management plan that there are viable habitats present for Bats, particularly in veteran and 'future veteran' trees with cavities or fissures. A wide variety of birds have been recorded locally including Bullfinch, Little Owl and Yellowhammer. A new owner could install some bird and bat boxes and build a simple hide to observe which species are present.

Bluebells flourish in the Spring in Mace Wood, as well as other ancient woodland indicator species including Dog's Mercury, and Butchers Broom.

- A splendid ancient mixed woodland situated within the M25.
- An incredible variation of tree species including many mature trees.

Access, tracks and footpaths

Despite its rural character Mace Wood is easily accessible, being around 1km inside the M25, with good access via small lanes.

Access to Mace Wood is via a single locked metal gate off Gorse Road (an owner will be provided a key for this locked gate). A stoned track leads to the ride stop entrance to Mace Wood. Here owners are able to drive in and park a car within the wood itself.

There are no public footpaths within the wood itself. There is a public footpath outside the northwest boundary of the wood (not actually within the woodland itself).

Rights and covenants

The wood is sold with the sporting rights.

The owner of Mace Wood will be asked to enter a covenant to ensure the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of the wood.

The purchasers of the woodland will be asked to enter into a covenant to ensure the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of adjoining woodlands and meadows.

Activities

It is worth noting that Woodlands.co.uk offer £300 towards a course for a new owner. Please note the £300 will be available for any course that relates in some way to managing or enjoying a woodland, for example introduction to woodland management, chainsaw training (strongly recommended by us especially if you are likely to use a chainsaw in the woods) or butterfly identification.

Mace Wood provides the opportunity for a new owner to engage in family forestry. Managing a woodland and learning bushcraft skills is a great way to escape the trappings of modern life. Building dens and wildlife hides and installing bird and bat boxes are just some examples of outdoor activities can be done here. Other ideas can be found here:
